

FAST N. H. TEAM WAS DEFEATED

I. A. C. Won From Charlestown Yesterday, 4 to 3

IN GAME OF LIGHT HITTING

Olinski Was Found at the Start, but He Grew Better as Game Progressed
Barre A. C. Defeated Independents.

The Italian Athletic club defeated the Charlestown, N. H., team at Goddard campus yesterday forenoon by a 4 to 3 score. The visiting team was one of the fastest seen here this summer and came to this city with a record of having trimmed nearly every team in New Hampshire. Had it not been for one or two wild heaves on the part of the fielders, the score might have read differently. Olinski was in the box for the locals. At the outset of the game, he seemed to be easy for the Charlestown batsmen. But after the third, when three runs were scored, he steadied down and thereafter had his opponents guessing constantly.

While "Ollie" was allowing them to touch him for three singles, ten of the Granite state braves fanned the breeze. Houghton was on the mound for Charlestown, and, though wild at times, he pitched a good game. He was touched for a total of four hits, two of them two sackers.

The visitors had one grand look-in in the third, and after that it was all over as far as scoring was concerned. Coll, first up, was an easy out, Olinski to Calagni. Smith followed with a single into center and reached second on Maherin's mistake. Parkman was retired by a grounder to Calagni. Gartin got a life on a fielder's choice, and went to third when Francesco threw the ball over third base, allowing Smith to tally. Leone, the next up, singled to right, scoring Gartin, and then tallied when Hull hit a slow grounder to third and died at first. Potter then drove a long fly, which Francesco pulled down, and the round was over.

Olinski started things for the Italians in the second, when he drew a cheap pass and scored on a series of wild throws. After Tomazzi had flied out in the third, Calagni pounded out a two-sacker, scoring later when Parkman failed to cover second for Smith's throw. The last one was pushed across in the fifth. Broggi drew a base on balls and went to third on Smith's error, scoring later on Houghton's wild pitch. The score:—

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Rheumatism

Is A Constitutional Disease.

It manifests itself in local aches and pains,—inflamed joints and stiff muscles,—but it cannot be cured by local applications.

It requires constitutional treatment, and the best is a course of the great blood purifying and tonic medicine—Hood's Sarsaparilla—which corrects the acid condition of the blood and builds up the system.

Barre Athletics Won the Money Over the Independents.

The baseball game at the park yesterday forenoon between the Barre Athletics and the Independents went to the former team by an 11 to 0 score. The Athletics so far outclassed their opponents that the game was rather dull and devoid of excitement. Godfrey, the Independents' pitcher, was pounded all over the lot, and the Athletics seemed to tie him for singles and two-baggers almost at will. "Capt." Lee was on the rubber for the victorious team and had the Indian sign on his opponents in every round. While his teammates were touching Godfrey for sixteen hits, Lee allowed the Independents only three.

The purse offered by the Central Labor union went to the winning team, although the second game, scheduled for the afternoon, was cancelled on account of the rain. In addition to being outclassed in every department, the losing team rolled up a total of six errors, against one for the Athletics. Following is the lineup of the two teams:—

Saturday's Games Were Called Off.

Visiting teams scheduled to play the Barre and the Italian Athletic clubs here Saturday met with a wet reception, as a hard rain, which set in during the afternoon, prevented them from playing. The Tenth Cavalry team from Fort Ethan Allen will return to this city next Saturday and will line up against the Italians on Goddard campus. It is expected that the postponed game between the St. Albans Independents and Barre will be played in this city some time in the near future.

KAUFMAN GOT DECISION

Fought Six-Round Go With Bill Lang

THE LATTER WAS WEAK

Showed to Advantage in Only One Round. It Was Kaufman's Fight, However, All the Way Through. Verdict the Popular One.

National League Ball Park, Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 6.—Al Kaufman last night got the popular decision over Bill Lang, the Austrian heavyweight in a six round bout here. In only one round did Lang show to advantage, the second in which he fought back and punished the Californian as severely as the latter had hurt him in the opening round. From this round to the close of the fight, Kaufman had all the advantage.

When Kaufman and Lang appeared in the ring last night there were between 7,000 and 8,000 persons in the ball park, seated in the boxes and through the big grand stand there were many women, who had been admitted to a boxing bout for the first time in the history of boxing in this city.

The ring was pitched midway between the home plate and the pitcher's box and was perfectly lighted by giant arc lights suspended from the top of the grand stand.

Seated about the ring and in the boxes were sporting men from all sections of the country.

The principals reached the city early in the afternoon, Kaufman from Allentown, N. J., and Lang from Stratford, Conn., their respective training quarters. Both were in the pink of condition and did not appear to carry an ounce of superfluous flesh. Kaufman looked to be at least 20 pounds heavier than the Australian. The fight was at catchweights and for a percentage of receipts. It was the second time in the history of pugilism in this city that an open air bout had ever been attempted, Jack O'Brien and Bob Fitzsimmons having met on the same grounds one afternoon a few years ago.

Seated in a box close to the ring-side, was Hugh McIntosh, the Australian fight promoter and his wife. James J. Corbett occupied a chair in the same box.

Kaufman had in his corner as chief adviser, Billy Delaney, and Kid McCoy looked after Lang.

Others in Kaufman's corner were Ready and Tom Kennedy, while Jim Corbett, Hugh McIntosh and Charlie Griffith assisted McCoy in taking care of the Australian. It was 9:30 when Kaufman climbed through the ropes. He was followed a moment later by Lang. Both were well received. After a few introductions and challenges, the chief of which was by Sandy Ferguson, who challenged Johnson for the championship of the world, the men were called to the center of the ring and given their instructions by referee Rosp.

It was Kaufman's fight all the way through.

In the last round the men pushed to

After Years of Terrible Suffering She Tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and Became Well and Strong Again.

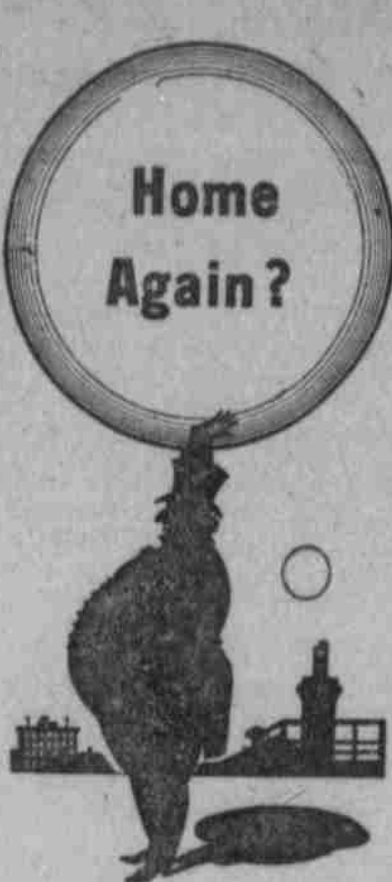

Miss Florence Whitehouse, a music teacher, of No. 336 Oakley avenue, Kansas City, Mo., found Dr. Williams' Pink Pills exactly suited to her case and her cure should encourage other women to give these pills a trial. She says:

"A few years ago I was afflicted with weakness, which followed a severe attack of malaria. I had severe pains through the small of my back and could hardly move around. It seemed that every bone in my body was sore. I was chilled through all of the time. During the warmest days of summer I would have to dress with heavy clothing. I was just like a skeleton and kept losing flesh. I would have terrible headaches. My head felt as though it was whirling around. My people thought I was going into consumption and I did not care whether I lived or not. I was sick for nearly six years."

"I was under the care of a doctor for several months. He kept me alive and that was about all. I could see no improvement under his treatment and, as a last resort, my people sent me to Excelsior Springs, Mo., thinking that the water there might help me. I did not improve much but while there I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as soon as I arrived home I began to take them. I could see a quick change after a short trial. I told my doctor what I was taking and he advised me to continue with them. He said they just hit my case. I took the pills until I became well and strong again and I have since been in good health. I cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to weak women."

Two helpful booklets, "Diseases of the Blood" and "Plain Talks to Women," giving more information about the remedy will be sent free on a postal card request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. The genuine are sold only in packages bearing the full trade-mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

SIX DAYS IN SMALL BOAT

Mauretania Picks Up Sixteen Men of

BURNED TRAMP STEAMER

Saved After Being Tossed About Six Days on the Atlantic in an Open Boat—Men Were Well.

London, Sept. 6.—A wireless message received yesterday morning from the steamship Mauretania, bound from New York for Liverpool, gives further details of the rescue on Friday night of the missing officers and crew of the burned British tramp steamer West Point. The first news that the shipwrecked men had been picked up was transmitted to the American side of the Atlantic Saturday.

The West Point was burned at sea a week ago Saturday. On Thursday the Leyland Line steamship Devonian, west bound, picked up sixteen of the crew, while the remainder, making another boatload, were found by the Mauretania.

It was 11 o'clock on Friday night when the Mauretania was battling with a northerly gale, that a lookout sighted the West Point's small boat. The steamship hove to and the small boat came alongside. It was found to contain Capt. Pinkham, the second officer, two engineers, and twelve seamen.

All the party were well in spite of the fact that they had been tossed about in an open boat for six days. Capt. Pinkham said that just before he made out the lights of the Mauretania, he had given up hope of being saved by a passing vessel, and was steering toward the Azores.

The rescue was effected in thirty-eight minutes from the time that the lookout discovered the little craft bobbing along on the high waves. The passengers of the Mauretania subscribed $430 for the relief of the West Point men, including $10 which one contributor paid for Capt. Pinkham's cat.

Boston, Sept. 6.—Stories of the hardships endured by the sixteen men of the British steamer West Point, who were picked up at sea by the Leyland steamer Devonian, after a long battle against heavy seas in a downpour of rain, are told in a dispatch received here from Capt. Trant of the Devonian yesterday. His dispatch also confirms the dispatch sent to Cape Race by the Mauretania, telling of the rescue of the captain and fifteen others of the crew.

a clinch. In the breakaway Lang tried a left for the face, but missed and Kaufman sent a hard right and left to the jaw. He repeated the blow a second later and Lang was staggered by the force of the blow. Kaufman sent a left to the jaw and they rushed to a clinch. Kaufman sent a left and right to the wind and uppercut a hard right to the jaw. Kaufman sent right and left to the face and Lang clinched as the gong rang. Kaufman wins by popular decision.

States His Position on Employers' Liability

IS STRONGLY FOR IT

Has Dispute with Auditor Who Asks Question and Tells Him It Is None of His Business Who Pays His Traveling Expenses.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 6.—In an address here yesterday before a great Labor day crowd, Theodore Roosevelt commended the federal judge who was presiding and had introduced him because the judge had declared himself in sympathy with the laboring man. He referred to Judge C. K. Amidon of North Dakota.

Fargo's Labor day celebration was almost spoiled by rain but the program was carried out between the showers. Mr. Roosevelt was on the speaker's stand at Island Park, where the principal exercises were held, when the heaviest showers came up. He put on his rain coat, pulled his hat over his eyes, left the shelter afforded by the canvas covering of the tent and went out into the rain to make room for two men whose hats were being soaked.

Col. Roosevelt in his address spoke of "employers' liability," as follows:

So it is in the matter of injuries to employees. In what is called "employers' liability" legislation other industrial countries have accepted the principle that the industry must bear the monetary burden of its human sacrifices and that the employee who is injured shall have a fixed and definite sum.

The United States still proceeds on an outworn and curiously improper principle, in accordance with which it has too often been held by the courts that the frightful burden of the accident shall be borne in its entirety by the very person least able to bear it.

Fortunately, in a number of states—in Wisconsin and in New York, for instance—these defects in our industrial life are either being remedied or else are being made a subject of intelligent study with a view to their remedy. In New York a bill embodying moderate compensation for accidents has already been passed. Other states will undoubtedly follow in the same path.

The federal government has, so far as its own employees are concerned, been the first to recognize and put into shape this principle. However, this pioneer law was not made comprehensive enough; it does not cover all the employees of the federal government that ought to come within its provisions, and the amount paid for permanent disability or death is entirely inadequate.

Nevertheless, it was a great step in advance to have this principle of workmen's compensation accepted and embodied in the federal statutes, and the recent action of Congress in providing for a commission to study and report upon the subject gives promise that the same principle will soon be applied to private firms that come within the jurisdiction of the federal government.

In introducing Mr. Roosevelt, Judge Amidon said that the people assembled there should not forget that above all the occasion was one of the laboring men, who were holding their annual celebration. Suggesting that laboring men suffer wrongs that might be reached by legislation, Judge Amidon added special attention to the failure of Congress to enact a law providing for compensation for laboring men when injured or for their families in the event of their death, while employed. Every government of Europe, with the exception of Turkey, he said, had enacted such laws, eliminating from the question of compensation all questions of negligence and fixing a definite amount to which the employees should be entitled.

George B. Howley, president of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor, made an address:

"There is no man on the face of the earth that stands as near or as dear to the laboring people as does Theodore Roosevelt," he said.

Mr. Roosevelt had a short controversy with a man who said he was a Socialist, at the end of his address yesterday afternoon at Island Park. As the crowd swarmed around the grand stand to shake hands with the colonel, the man crowded through the throng and stepped upon the platform. He addressed Mr. Roosevelt loudly: "Colonel Roosevelt, who is paying your expenses on this trip?" he demanded.

"I do not consider that any of your business," was the reply.

Piles make life unhappy and ruin the best disposition. Most sufferers have been bitterly disappointed by many failures to find a cure. CHURCHES JAMMED.

Twenty-first Eucharistic Congress Opens Auspiciously.

Montreal, Sept. 6.—The twenty-first eucharistic congress virtually opened Sunday morning. Cardinal Vannutelli, the papal legate to the congress, pontificated at the high mass at the cathedral; Cardinal Logue at Notre Dame and Father Vaughan, the most militant Catholic preacher in England, preached at St. Patrick's. At the cathedral, the papal legate said a few words after mass, many later coming forward to the altar to receive his blessing. The church was crowded to the doors.

At Notre Dame the services were for working men and working women particularly. At the women's meeting the church was absolutely packed before half past one, although the vesper did not commence until 4. When the cardinals and archbishops arrived, a path had to be formed for them by the police from the sacristy to the altar. Many women fainted, but had to remain where they were, so eager were those outside to press in.

At St. Patrick's in the morning, Father Vaughan excited great fervor in his defense of the eucharist.

Sunday evening as the papal legate was being driven from Notre Dame to the archbishop's palace, a crowd of several hundred people stopped his carriage, unharnessed the horses and pulled him bodily up the steep hill, singing and chanting as they went along. Before the cardinal alighted he raised his hand and blessed them.

Montreal is in a religious frenzy, and all day long men, women and children knelt about the open air altars praying and telling their beads on the street corners. The formal sessions of the congress did not open until to-day. Yesterday was spent by the church dignitaries and other visitors in resting and sight-seeing.

The U. S. Army authorities know a gun; that is why, when they decided to equip some troops with repeating shotguns, they selected the Winchester in preference to all other makes.
